Dear Troop 351 Honor Scout Alumni Association,

On behalf of UNICEF and MSNBC, thank you so much for your generous gift of $125.00 to UNICEF USA that was received on Friday, Dec 30, 2022 to purchase desks in Malawi. As the world's leading children's organization, UNICEF understands the critical role education plays in a child's survival. Every child deserves an education, but school is about more than just learning. It saves and transforms lives, and yields spectacular benefits in social and economic development.

Every day, millions of children throughout Africa struggle to learn while sitting on the floor or on the ground outdoors. Your generous contribution to K.I.N.D.: Kids in Need of Desks will help furnish the way towards an educational system that can keep students excited about learning. Giving them a desk, where they can write and concentrate, is the first step towards creating an educational system that attracts, and keeps, eager young students.

Providing these basic educational needs that help children survive and thrive, even in the most desperate circumstances, is only possible because you have opened your heart and helped UNICEF do whatever it takes to put children first.

Thanks to your dedication, UNICEF can continue to work toward creating a world where every child grows up healthy and educated; a world where each young life is filled with possibility.

Fondly,

Caryl M. Stern
President & CEO

Dear Troop 351 Honor Scout Alumni Association,

On behalf of UNICEF and MSNBC, thank you so much for your generous gift of $125.00 to UNICEF USA that was received on Friday, Dec 30, 2022 for the Girl's Scholarship Fund in Malawi. As the world's leading children's organization, UNICEF understands the critical role education plays in a child's survival. Every child deserves an education, but school is about more than just learning. It saves and transforms lives, and yields spectacular benefits in social and economic development.

Education is a child's passport to a brighter future. For girls in particular, education offers the chance for independence and a healthier life. In Malawi, only 7% of girls complete their education; most drop out by the time they reach puberty. In rural areas of Malawi, girls make up only 9% of all secondary school students. One reason for high drop-out rates is the cost: unlike primary education, secondary education isn't free. In areas with no secondary school nearby, girls have to travel long distances each day or pay for their own room and board. In a country where more than 40% of the population lives on less than a dollar a day, the cost of a girls' secondary education—tuition, rent, transportation, books, a uniform, and other materials—is prohibitive for most families.

Providing the means to help children survive and thrive, even in the most desperate circumstances, is only possible because you have opened your heart and helped UNICEF do whatever it takes to put children first.

Thanks to your dedication, UNICEF can continue to work toward creating a world where every child grows up healthy and educated; a world where each young life is filled with possibility.

With hope for every child,

V. Renee Cutting
Chief Philanthropy Officer
